BOOKS AND PERIODICALS. ORSELAND TALES. By Hjalmar H. Boyesen. Illustrated Cloth, $1.25. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York. From Megeath NORSELAND TALES. J. A. Froude. Cloth, $2.50. Charles Scrib-ner's Sons, New York. From Megeath Stationery Company, Omaha.

Twenty lectures delivered by the eminent historian, Froude, are combined in this vol-ume, forming an excellent story of the life of this scholar, the brilliant contemporaries with whom he was intimate and their influ-letters to friends and his versions and opinions conveyed in such clear, expressive style torical interest. Both the letters and the remarks of Mr. Froude are full of life and ence on the reformation. His pen portraits of Thomas Moore and Dean Colet given in the first time in many years. The plot of this tale is founded on the intermarriage of a Catholic and Protestant, developing stirring leeds in the remaking of a man. The story is very complex, but is of a wholesome order and shows the handiwork of a master.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE. By Barrett

slored race in the south.

Wendell, Cloth, $1.75. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York. From Megeath Stationery Company, Omaha. A study in Elizabethan literature which the author tells us "has grown from lectures given at Harvard college to classes who were systematically reading the works under dis-cussion." Much as has been written of the great master mind of literature, there are always new views to be revealed and new lights to be thrown on his wonderful per-sonality and his marvelous creations. In this espect the reader will not be disappointed in respect the reader with not be disappeared in this volume, and, what is more, its pertinent criticism is dressed in a style forming the most agreeable reading and conveying to the mind not lessons in art, but art in lessons.

LITERARY NOTES. Rudyard Kipling's first American story will be printed in an early number of The Century. "Sentimental Tommy" is the name of Mr Barrie's forthcoming novel, and "The Mer of the Moss-Hags" the title of Mr. S. R. Crockett's new tale. Bret Harts is writing a story of American life and incident for The Ladies' Home Journal, which will publish also Frank Stockton's new stories, "Love Before Breakfast" and "As One Woman to Another." A "Real Conversation" between Conan Doyle and Robert Barr, giving glimpses of Dr. Doyle's home life and his methods of work, and reporting his opinions on the state of the novelist's art in England and America at the present line. America at the present time, will appear in

Some month ago it got into print that T B. Aldrich had been invited by the editor of the Pall Mail Magazine to contribute a aonnet filling "about a page and a half." connet occupying two pages. The type, of course, is very large; and on each page con-siderable space is filled by a picture.

The Writer in its October number has some very apt suggestions for literary workers. "More Inconsistencies of Illustration," "Placeing Manuscripts" and "Queries" are among papers of this number. The Writer, Bos-

The American Enquirer and Railroad Journal in the October Issue makes the announce-ment that hereafter the monthly called Aeronautics will be incorporated in its pages and will have special attention. The Amer-ican Engineer and Railroad Journal, 47 Cedar Street, New York. "The Future Problem of Charity and the Inemployed," by John Graham Brooks, Peaceable Boycotting," by Chester A. Reed, and "The Failure of Biologic Sociology," by Simon N. Patten, are among the latest con-tributions, each published under separate cover by the American Academy of Political and Social Science, Philadelphia. The Bookman tells an amusing story of Mr. Oscar Wilde and a certain poet, who shall be nameless. The bard complained to the aesthete that a book of his had been practically ignored by certain critics. "There is a conspiracy of silence against my book!" he said. "What should you do about it, you were I?" "Join it," was the answer.

Home and Country for October has a new and highly attractive design for its page and displays throughout signs of im-provement. Its papers cover a wide range of topics and are very entertaining. Among other contributions Dr. Frederic A. Cook tells of 'The Arctic Regions as a Summer Resort.' Joseph W. Kay, 53 East Tenth Street, New York. October Book News gives a portrait of George Du Maurier, the artist-author of "Trilby," with a sketch descriptive of his life and works. The usual collection of reviews of the month's books, a very full list of new books and new editions, pictures from them, notes of author's doings, with full announcements from the publishers for the holidays, make up a magazine that is a necessity to those who would be posted in things literary. John Wanamaker, Philaielphi At the recent auction sale in Lendon of the effects of the late Maharajah Duleep Singh there was sold a rare and quaint old Hindustani manuscript work on taming animals and birds, with illustrations drawn by hand. There was plenty of competition for it among the bidders, nearly all of whom retired from the contest when 70 guineas had been reached. Then the battle became a duel, until at length the hammer fell at 1430. Another native work, called "The Indian System of Hawking," with fine miniature drawings, fetched 165.

The October number of Donahoe's, coming out in the midst of the political campaign, has for its leading features three articles in answer to the question, "Which Party Should be Supported?" Dr. Thomas Dwight, in a striking article on "Sham Science," attacks Prof. Dr. manual of the prof. Dr. Thomas Dwight, in a striking article on "Sham Science," attacks Prof. Dr. manual of the prof. Dr. in a striking article on "Sham Science," at-tacks Prof. Drummond; and Rev. John Talbot Smith analyzes the character and works of Archbishop Corrigan, in the first of a series of articles on "Eminent American Prelates." There is also a complete story by the English novelist, Robert Barr, and many other artistic attractions, stories, poems and pic-Donahoe's Magazine Company, 611 Washington Street, Boston.

Hall Caine recently said of "The Manx-

man: "Hardly one passage of it was writ-ten with pen in hand. I used to wake early in the morning, usually about 5 o'clock, prop myself up in bed, and, with closed eyes, think out my work for the day, until not only the thing took shape, but every passage found expression. About 8 o'clock, I would get up and hurriedly write down the words. This would occupy about an hour, and then I would do nothing but read until evening, when I spent another hour in revising or rewriting what I had written in the morning, and the rest of the night in planning the work for the following day." Recreation is the name of a bright monthly beginning its career this month. It is beautifully and liberally illustrated. There are six full page illustrations and eight smaller ones, representing in the main, outdoor sports, though blending with it some features of the family magazine. Among the more prominent articles in this number-are "Alaska," by General John Gibbon, U. S. A.; "The Hero of South Mountain," "How the Trout Came to California," by Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Stanford iniversity: y Captain H. H. Bellas, U. S. A., and 'Turkey Shooting by Moonlight,' Major C. J. Crane, U. S. A. Published at 216 William Street, New York. Dr. R. M. Bucke, the ardent worshipper of Walt Whitman, is still engaged in swinging the censer. "Walt," he says in his recent Whitman Fellowship paper, "was pretty sur that the man Shaxper never wrote th Shakespeare' plays, but he would not and did not commit himself to a positive declaration of opinion on the subject. His mode LIFE ON A BACKWOODS FARM. By William Riley Halstead. Cloth, $1. Cranston & Curtis, Cincinnati.

A medicy of country tales not reflecting country life in any distinct sense, but very then asked these present to say from whose then asked those present to say from whose works it was taken. Five or six, I among contemplations. It is a series of incoherent chapters containing reflections growing out of backwoods life rather than pictures of the life itself.

The opening article is "The Real Edwin Booth," being letters of the late Edwin Booth," being letters of the late actor, with an introduction by his daughter, Edwina Booth Grossman. The article is the opening of a series of extracts from the "Life," which Mrs. Grossman is now preparing. In "The Eternal Guilible" Ernest Hart exposes some of the frauds which are recoming about under the name of hypnoions conveyed in such clear, expressive style invest them with a personal as well as a historical interest. Both the leiters and the remarks of Mr. Froude are full of life and light.
